In 2019, we had invited Nassim Olive, the current COO of Eterna Capital to discuss the topic of investment insights in blockchain. During the discussion, the panelists shared how they assess the profitable blockchain investment opportunities and got to know more lucrative blockchain projects.

During 2019 New York Block Summit, Daryl Hok, EVP and COO of CertiK, talked about his perspective regarding the future challenge in how to make blockchain ecosystem hacker-resistant and let more participants from funds know his achievement. After the event, CertiK successfully received the support from Qtum Official to develop safer smart contracts.

Lee Schneider, a financial service and technology lawyer to 2019 New York Block Summit to discuss the challenges for the regulators to react to the rapid changing industry in the next 5 to 10 years.

Ahead of industrial application, the breakthrough in academia is the source of power that drives the innovation in the fintech field. We had invited Danling Jiang, a professor from Stony Brook University to share her research in corporate blockchain investments and stock market reactions. Project founders at 2019 New York Block Summit had gained insights in what future steps they should take to remain the innovative role in the industry.

At 2019 New York Block Summit, $10 million opportunities were created with the chance to interact with different roles in the system. The event took different organizations in fintech industry by storm and brought up the public awareness and understanding in fintech and blockchain.

BITMART PAST EVENTS

2019 China Digital Economy & BitMart One Year Anniversary
