

Gooderham

Flatiron Building Impression

Presented by:

Emily (Peipei Wu)

01

Location/History

02

Architecture &
Artistics

03

Transportation

04

Travel Advisory

01

Location/History

History of Gooderham Building

- Symbol historical heritage
- 'Toronto's Flat Iron's Financial District
- Expensive and oldest office building
- Associated with the famous Gooderham family and their distillery, this building's history, like the family, dates back to the 19th
- Investing in other interests outside of the distillery such as banking, woolen mills, retail, the Toronto and Nipissing Railway and lake transportation.
- The building, an example of Roman Revival and French Gothic architecture, finished construction in 1892, an early example of a prominent flatiron building.

Location of Gooderham Building

- An historical office building at 49 Wellington Street East in Toronto, Ontario, Canada
- Eastern edge of the city's Financial District
- Wedged between Front Street and Wellington Street in Downtown Toronto, where they join up to form a triangular intersection.
- Background is the skyscrapers of the Financial District towering
- Visible CN Tower

02

Architecture & Artistics

03

Transportation

04

Travel Advisory

A Good Place to Travel: Unique Building, Strongly Recommend

- Beside its location, the building is Toronto's most photographed historical building.
- The building exterior features are both Roman and Gothic Revival design
- The iron-like outlook easily recognize.
- The elevator inside building is one the oldest evelator in Toronto.
- On the west wall, there is a huge mural by Canadian artist Derek Besant that uses the effect of visual Trap.

Best Travel Time

Spring, Summer, Fall

A Good Place to Travel: Unique Building, Strongly Recommend

- Same style and spectacular view to Shanghai Wukang Building and New York Flatiron Building.
- One time travel is enough, but have to travel one time in life.

Thanks